Dear Bill:

Today a very good friend of mine downtown, Dana Lamb, called because he had received a letter from a friend of his who wants to meet you. The second man's name is [REDACTED]

According to Dana, who can be trusted in such matters, [REDACTED] does not want a job, does not want to sell you a gold brick, and will not bore you. Apparently he has some idea he wants to discuss with you.

I have told Dana that I would write this note and doubtless you will hear from [REDACTED] some time next week. I hope I haven't gotter you in for a time waster but I had to accommodate an old and good friend.

With best regards,

Sincerely,

Th-
